

Reasons to Believe: 2022

Speaker information

You're invited to a one-day Apologetics event led by Reigate Baptist Church and supported by Moorlands College on Saturday 29 October. Reasons to Believe: 2022 will help people address their doubts, their questions, and their struggles with the Christian faith.

CHRIS SINKINSON

Chris tutors and lectures on both the BA and MA at Moorlands College. He was previously a pastor and has authored a number of books relevant to biblical archaeology. Chris writes a monthly column for Evangelicals Now and has recently been part of filming productions based in Israel. He has excavated in Galilee and in the UK and is passionate about using archaeology responsibly in demonstrating the reliability of the Bible.

KAREN TODD

Karen has worked with the government, Local Authorities, and national charities to support them in working with parents and has written parenting programmes. She is fascinated by brain development and has worked on several projects about this subject with a focus on early years and the teenage brain. Having practised and made many mistakes with her own children, she would love you to join her seminar to encourage you in your family situation.

ANDY DU FEU

Andy is the Executive Director at Moorlands College, and also leads the youth and community work training. His book, Looking Good Naked: Youth Work and the Body of Christ is a must-read for church youth workers. He lectures on a breadth of subjects and is working on a PhD on digital theology. Andy has extensive experience as a youth worker and church pastor, speaking regularly at youth events and churches. Alongside Karen, Andy launched the 3:15 Youth Apologetics conference as a way to better equip people with confidence about their faith.

MICHAEL WILLIAMS

Mike took over as Senior Pastor at Reigate Baptist Church in 2015, having been the trainee pastor there since 2011, and gained a degree at Moorlands College in 2014. Mike has written a book called Setting the Record Straight: Holding to God's word and loving the LGBTQ+ community which is due to be released in the latter part of 2022. Mike's heart is to uncover the truth of God's word on sexuality whilst ensuring we uphold the greatest commandment: "to love God and love those around us".
