There is no death – only a change of worlds.

Young one, as you run, look to the mountain top.

Keep your gaze fixed on that mountain and you will feel the miles melt beneath your feet.

Do this and in time you will feel as if you can leap over bushes, trees, and even the river.

Whatever life's challenges you may face,

remember always to look to the mountain top,

for in so doing you look to greatness.

Remember this and let no problem,

however great it may be,

discourage you or let anything less than the mountain top to distract you.

And in that dim coming time when we shall meet again,

it shall be on the mountain top.
