

We are heartbroken to announce the passing of Cheyenne Nicole Fleece, age 22, of Quitman. Cheyenne left this world on October 23, 2024. Cheyenne was a beloved daughter and friend, who will be missed by everyone who got to know her.

Cheyenne was born in Quitman on July 13, 2002 to Michelle Hestand and Donald Fleece. She grew up in Quitman and graduated from Quitman High School in 2020, where her enthusiasm for agriculture and engineering classes flourished. Her teacher, Mr. Cross, became a cherished mentor and like family to her during those formative years.

After high school, Cheyenne briefly attended Tyler Junior College, focusing on general education courses as she explored her interests and aspirations. She found joy in cooking for her friends, nurturing her house plants, and caring for exotic pets.

Cheyenne is preceded in death by her maternal great-grandmother, Margie Hasten, and maternal great-grandfather, Marvin Hestand.

She will forever be missed by her mother, Michelle Hestand; father, Donald Fleece; maternal grandmother, Sharon Hasten; and many aunts, uncles, cousins, friends, and pets.

Candlelight

by Cloudy Jane

Hold me like your breath
Miss me like that one night in summer
There's always gonna be a last
But for now, let's just pretend there's forever.

Warm me like the sun
Then shock me again with your explosions
We sure won't live as long as the moon
but for now, you can be like I was the ocean?

And of course it ain't easy when nobody knows where they are going.
And of course it is scary when all that we know is that we are floating through space.

We all burn out like a candlelight
After a short moment
where we brightened the night
We all burn out but honey, it's alright
As long as you're there
I'll be burning by your side.

In Loving Memory of...
