

MARION WAYNE BAILEY was welcomed to this world by Marion Washington and Nell RONALDA Bailey on April 26, 1941 and moved on from this life on February 25, 2023. We are confident he was greeted by his parents, his sister, Eileen, and his brother, David. Even though it has only been two days since passing from me (your “best Dear”), it seems like forever ago...already.

Wayne’s deepest love was for Heavenly Father, his Savior Jesus Christ, and his family. Wayne and I (Heidi) were married on June 30, 1971, and we had six children: Heidi Lynn Walstad, Tami Steiner (Eric), April Bonnett, Jonathan (Ashley), Benjamin (Nicole) and Brigham (Brittinee), 24 grandchildren, and 5 great-grandchildren. Jonathan recently asked him what he loved about the first house we lived in. Wayne said, “Coming home to my wife and our children.”

With a newspaper or book about a favorite gospel topic in hand, he was ever ready to listen to, teach, love, and serve us. He loved his role as husband and father. Brigham says he loved his dad’s quiet demeanor that was never sharp or unkind.

Wayne set a good example of hard work and provided for us all through his strong work ethic. He held jobs in banking for 17 years as an auditor and branch audit manager. At one low point, he lost his job with First Interstate Bank when it was absorbed by Wells Fargo. Through much fasting and prayer, a miracle occurred for him - he was offered a job at Brigham Young University in Financial Services treasury department. When Wayne and I were first dating, he told me his dream job would be to either work at BYU or the US Treasury Department, so a job in the Treasury Department at BYU truly was a miracle. He spent the rest of his career days at the “Y”.

He served faithfully in every calling he was ever asked. He had an absolute commitment to the principle of ministering and was the champion of its power in the leadership callings he held. He was always a faithful home teacher and minister. His favorite calling was teaching Gospel Doctrine, and his deep knowledge, combined with teaching by the spirit, blessed all who enjoyed his classes.

It is with saddened hearts we say goodbye for a time, Dear, but we know you are just in the other room, and we will see you soon.
