In Loving Memory

Henry Martin Steiner

CAPTIVATED BY TIME

Standing here captivated by the time,
My thoughts become blind

Long and wide is the distance,
Impossible to clutch resemblance

How big, the extension of the boundless;
Endless, regardless,

How small, is the fundamental of matter,
Comprehension it should shatter

The vital force of physical and spiritual,
Existing the all of things, mutual

Knowing as no one knows, all the past,
But curiosity reaches for a grasp

Knowing as no one knows, all the future,
And curiosity questions a mature

Satisfaction can be endless to find,
Standing captivated by time.
