Earthly Service Complete

*When I think of my home,
I think of things to come.
I have a beautiful home for my soul;
The streets are paved with gold.
Songs waft through the streets
And echo through the holy trees.
There's no pain or sadness here,
No sickness, darkness, sin or fear.
There's an eternal feast, and music heard,
Stories from his holy word.
They serve the One that sits on high.
The One that sent His Son to die.
They gather around His sacred throne.
And praise His name for mercy shown.
Their crowns rest at Jesus' feet.
A reminder of earthly service complete.
This home of which I speak is heaven
It's the haven of rest for those who believe.
Sound too good? Believe me, it's true.
Because Jesus died and rose for you.*
