OUR MOTHER OUR ANGEL

How is it that we never saw your wings when you were here with us? When you closed your eyes and soared to the heavens we could hear the faint flutter of your wings as you left your body no longer on this side your spirit here eternally. We see your halo shine. We close our eyes and see the multi-colored wings surround us in our saddest moments and our happiest times.

Mother our angel, God has given you your assignment. Always our mother forever our angel. You fly into our dreams and when we sleep we feel your wings brush againsts our face wiping away the tears we shed since we can no longer hold you in our arms but in our heart. You earned those wings dear mother and you will always be our angel eternally.

Love you always,
~Tony & Tiffany~

Her Story

MARIAN AURELIA TILGHMAN was born in Philadelphia, PA on August 18, 1946. She was the daughter of Norwood and Aurelia Smith she had one sister Emma Thomas. She was called home to be with the Lord on January 2, 2023.

Marian was educated in the Philadelphia schools system graduating from William Penn High School in 1963. She later worked in the factory as a streamstress while attending business school and from there began a career in insurance sales and banking. She worked in the banking industry for 50 years, retiring from Wells Fargo Bank's mortgage department in 2008.

Her family and friends were most important to her. She was the kool auntie. She would check you and tell you she loved you all in the same sentence. Although she only had two biological children, she had a host of young people that called her auntie, mom and grandmom. She was truly the mother of Sydenham Street.

The day she was called home she was filled with the Holy Spirit and surrounded by her family. Marian leaves to cherish her memories her children, Anthony D. Marshall and Tiffany R. Brodie; her two loving Grand Pets, Big Poppa and Barbara Jean; her only sister, Emma Thomas; her former husband and friend, Raymond Tilghman; one sister-in-law, Denise Tilghman; one brother-in-law, Keith Tilghman; her best friend, Claudette Mcfadden; two very special friends, Paulette and Latifah Williams and a host of loving nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Lovingly Submitted,
