

Family Sentiments:

Mom shared her love of sewing with us. Which turned into a necessity with six girls. Perfection was the goal, requiring us to many times rip, and start over until a beautiful garment was created. She expressed her longing to sew again, but was too ill. In paradise, I look forward to being side by side with her, creating beautiful clothing with mom, one of my best friends. (Adrienne Jones)

I thank Mom for faithfully never giving up on us while teaching us the truth. Before there was Family Study Night, we had family study night several nights a week. I thank Mom for teaching us to cook, sew, paint, hang wall paper and more, teaching us skills for one day being capable women, mothers and wives just as she was. I appreciated Mom's way of always taking time to converse with each of us from our youth up. Mom had a way of making each of us feel we were her favorite. Although, I have informed my sisters, I really was her favorite.... lol. What a joy it will be to see both Mom and Dad in Paradise to pick up where we all left off. (Denise Carrington)

Mom, I miss you greatly; for being the mother you were. Teaching us spiritual and practical skills that will help us carry on. And for being a wonderful Grandma to my children. Forever in my heart. (Cheryl Carraway)

My heart is aching quietly right now as I mourn the loss of both my parents within the same year; yet contributing to both your care at the end was a privilege. Mom fully understood me, and was one of my best friends and trusted confidant. Thank you for teaching me how to be a spiritual woman who loves softly, is strong or tender when needed, and yet has the skills to quietly survive during difficult times with a smile. You will be missed; however, I am comforted knowing you are now in Jehovah God's hand and memory. (Cathy Smith)

Difficult to say goodbye. To think of you not being here. In your children I see the love, joy, kindness, generosity, sweetness, goodness, peacefulness...I see so much. I see you. And appreciate this gift of still having a wonderful part of you still here...I love you so much. (Jennifer Purvis)

Mother I love you and miss you already. Although I know I will see you again, the house and my heart are empty without you. It has been both an honor and privilege to care for you and Dad for the past few years. No regrets. Your daughter. (Leslie Carolyn Bland)

Obituary

Mrs. Ometa Perkins Moses was born in Florence, South Carolina on November 7, 1934 to the late Mr. Solomon Perkins Sr. and Catherine Perkins; after the early death of her mother Catherine, Ometa and her siblings were raised by her father Solomon Perkins Sr. and her step-mother Mary E. Perkins. Ometa departed on Saturday, December 24, 2022.

Ometa attended the Florence County, South Carolina School System. Ometa later married her childhood sweetheart, Prince Danny Moses on February 9, 1954, and later moved to New York where they raised six children together. Prince and Ometa were married two months shy of 68 years at the time of Prince's death in December 2021.

It was in New York after an in-depth study of the Bible, that Ometa Moses was baptized as one of Jehovah's Witnesses on April 26, 1962. Ometa was responsible for teaching many (including family members) about Jehovah and aiding many to get baptized.

After working as a supervisor for a major financial institution, and later working for several years within the New York School System, Ometa retired and moved with her husband Prince Moses to Charlotte, North Carolina. Ometa was a faithful member of the Linda Lake Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses; the meetings brought her comfort and hope for the future.

Ometa always had a beautiful smile, and enjoyed attending her Christian meetings, field service, spending time with family, arts and crafts, helping people, gardening, eating seafood and antique shopping. Many family members and friends knew she was dependable for her support to all that needed help. She loved her family, and looked forward to Jehovah's promise of a time when pain and death no longer exist.

Ometa is survived by six daughters Adrienne Jones, Denise Carrington (Harold), Cheryl Carraway (Larry), Cathy Smith (Derek), Jennifer Purvis (Craig L.), Leslie Carolyn Bland, a step-son Danny Moses Jr. (Tracy), and an adopted sister/niece Vivian Wells-Matthews (Derek).

Fourteen Grandchildren Christopher Jones (Hriadne), Arielle Jones, Dayna Innocent (Miquel), Enjolique LeMaitre, Nicole LeMaitre, Jazzmine LeMaitre, John LeMaitre, LaTayelle LeMaitre, Danielle Lake-Nestor (Mark), Craig L. Purvis II., Jamal Purvis (LaToya), Danny Prince Bland, Michael Bland (Jamie), several beloved great grandchildren, and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, family, and friends.

Ometa is preceded in death by her husband Prince Danny Moses, both of her parents Solomon Perkins and Catherine Perkins, step-mother Mary E. Perkins, Five brothers Sylvester, Willie Lee, Carl, Solomon Levy Jr., Lecolius, and two sisters Mabel and Ophelia.
