

Mother's Never Really Die

By: Helen Steiner Rice

Death beckoned her with outstretched hand
And whispered softly of an unknown land...

But she was not afraid to go-
For though the path she did not know.

She took death 's hand without fear-
For He who safely brought her here...

Had told her He would lead the way-
Into eternity's bright day.

And so she did not go alone-
Into the valley that unknown...

She gently took death by the hand-
And journeyed to the promised land.

And there. With step so light and gay-
She polishes the sun by day...

And lights the star, that shine at night-
And keeps the moonbeams silvery bright.

For Mothers really never die-

They just keep house up in the sky...

And in the heavenly home above-

The wait to welcome those they love.
