For Today: Do Not Grow Weary

Paul wrote, "Let us not lose heart in doing good, for in due time we will reap if we do not grow weary. So then, while we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, and especially to those who are of the household of the faith." (Galatians 6:9,10)

Devotion to doing good because of our faith in God and Christ still exhausts us.

- Evil is always present.
- Injustice is always obvious.
- "Good" people make terrible mistakes.
- "Evil people continuously create pain and struggle.
- Needs continuously overwhelm best efforts.

So why try? "We are just plain tired?" Ah, but we forget. What? We do not do good because we can permanently "fix" everything in this world. We do good because God does good, and we are God's children. This world is temporary. God's home is not. Furthermore, doesn't the promise that we will "reap a harvest if we do not give up" give you a little pep in your step?

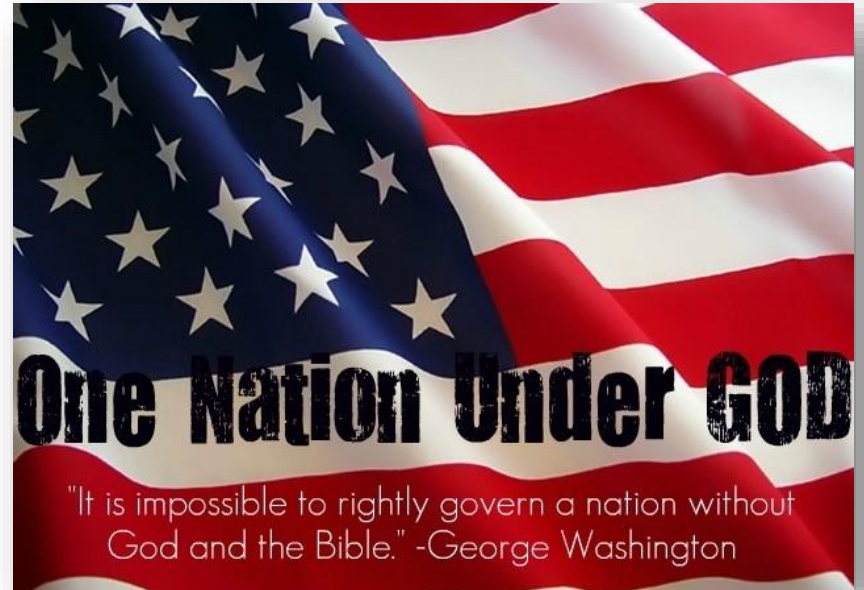

As I was reading this verse, I noticed something that I never caught before: it is written in the first-person plural. I've always thought that I shouldn't grow weary because someday I'll reap a harvest, and it has encouraged me to keep going. But the verse says "we," as in a joint venture.

This led me to think about how much we need each other if we're truly going to do good. We need each other's skills, experiences, encouragement, and prayers to be effective in the good we long to accomplish.

And that makes me so thankful for YOU... those who are pursuing the harvest with me, those who give, pray, travel, introduce their friends, and wash dishes at events. Those who fill orphan gift banks, and those who volunteer their time. Those who support their friend's short-term trip. And you, reading this message.
