

Welcome to Eastgate SDA Church!

A message from elder Wade Brooks:

A Spirit of praise and thanksgiving has been present at the greatest moments of spiritual history in this world! We read stories of modern-day Christians around this world living out their lives in extreme conditions about how they use praise and thanksgiving in ways I can only dimly understand. These believers have a joy that is impossible to explain. Their spirit of thanks giving and praise changes them and radically alters the world around them. Spiritual strongholds of darkness are pulled down and they move forward and do things that confound the world and leave us in awe.

This Sabbath we will seek through testimony, story and Scripture to embrace this experience for ourselves. I hope you can join in! I look forward to worshiping together with you this Sabbath!

~elder Wade

This Weekend! November 24, 2018; elder Wade Brooks presents, “The Power of Praise”.

Come at 9:30am and spend an hour with us in bible study in small groups. Children’s age appropriate classes too! Then stay from 10:45am – 12:15pm as we meet in the sanctuary for worship service.

Don’t forget! This Sabbath is All Church Fellowship Dinner. Bring something that can be share which will serve 6 to 8 people and enjoy the fellowship.

Next Weekend: December 1, 2018; Pastor Eric Saylor returns from Thanksgiving Weekend with his extended family to share with us his church family. Join us as we enter into the second week of Advent!

Season of Donations and Giving

This is the time of year when all organizations are striving to increase your awareness of them as you near the end of your giving year. They each hope to give you a tax exempt organization to donate to. We each feel the need of others and wish to help those around us.

We recognize that each one of us has a limited source of income and we thank you for being responsible in your giving to the many charities. So, please recognize we will pass along the needs for your consideration and pray for your as you help those in this world.

Sincerely, Eastgate Office

Thanks for helping us with this fundraiser.

Walla Walla University's Commitment to Diversity Plan

Last April, WWU president John McVay announced eight areas of diversity focus that the university would immediately pursue in keeping with its mission which affirms that “every person is created in the image of God as a being of inestimable value and worth.” These eight areas, which have been developed into a plan called Our Commitment to Diversity in collaboration with WWU students, faculty, and staff is being shepherded into action, and progress will be reported annually. “The specifics of the plan aren't just talk; they are an important foundation from which the campus family can take positive, deliberate, measurable steps toward fostering a more diverse campus community—the kind of community that inspires creativity and compassion and that develops young professionals equipped for a diverse world and future,” says McVay. Read Our Commitment to Diversity and learn more about our action steps at wallawalla.edu/diversity.

FROM THE UPPER COLUMBIA CONFERENCE FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS IN TIME OF DISASTER:

1. Who will receive this special offering?

Upper Columbia Conference will receive the donations through church remittance or direct donations. UCC donations will be sent to Northern California Conference with the understanding that these funds are specifically given for those impacted by the Paradise fire (Camp Fire). Treasurers will receive specific information from UCC Treasury.

2. How much of the donated dollars of the special offering will be sent to Northern California Conference (NCC) for those impacted by the Paradise Fire?

100% The donation will be restricted to the Camp Fire relief/recovery that affected tens of thousands in Paradise, CA and at this writing has affected a limited number in surrounding communities.

3. Will the conference send truckloads of clothing and household items to assist?

Certainly not at this time. Many times well-meaning individuals and organizations truck in, ship or mail clothing, furniture, toys, food, and other items. At this point, that is not what is needed.

In fact, decades of disaster experience have shown such donations can become a “secondary disaster.” Why? Where will donated goods be stored or distributed? Who will distribute? Who will sort the items? What do you do with the mounds of poor quality items that often are sent? Who will pay for the shipping expenses?

Where are the individuals and families who have fled the fires? Some may be living in their cars with limited space. It may be weeks until individuals and families are even allowed back into the area and then where will they go?

4. Why in most cases is cash the best way to give in time of disaster?

- a. Cash is flexible -- The nature of disaster is chaos, complexity and a reality that changes by the minute. Today’s need may not be tomorrow’s need. We can be assured, however, there will be needs in the days, weeks, months and years to come.
- b. Cash can quickly be transferred to individuals or families in need by a check or gift card. The individuals and families are then able to make their own choices.
- c. Cash can be used immediately or the use can be delayed if that is best.
- d. Cash can be leveraged.
For example, if bottled water is needed, individuals will pay full price at the local box store. If a relief organization buys water by the semi-truck loads, the organization may purchase 5-10 times the amount of water for the same dollars.
- e. Cash supports the local economies that perhaps are struggling because of the disaster.

5. How can a donation be made?

- a. A special offering at church on Sabbath, November 17. Tithe envelopes can be marked “Paradise Recovery” through December.
- b. On-line Giving – “UCC Disaster Response-Paradise Recovery”
- c. Mail a check to Upper Columbia Conference – marked Paradise Recovery Offering.

Thank you for your generosity in assisting those so tragically impacted by this disaster.

Privileged to serve with the Master,

Patty Marsh
