Irrigon Seventh-day Adventist Church

#09-2019

This coming Labor Day Weekend marks our families 9th yearly trip up to Camp IdaHaven. Nine years ago we were invited to Next Camp for families that have special needs children. What is amazing about this camp is that while we have had a few families come and go; for the most part it is the same families year after year that we get to share our lives with for this long weekend. We get to see how their children have grown in the last year. We get to share in the victories that families have achieved as they have helped their children learn and overcome difficulties. We also share in the heartaches when there have been set backs or even more difficulties. We share together, we pray together, we lift each other's burdens, and we even weep together.

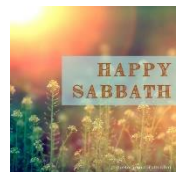

This kind of support is one of the reasons why it is so important that we have a local church family to support us in our walk with Christ. When we have victories, we get to encourage one another by sharing how Christ has been working in our life. When we are in the midst of challenges, we lift each other up knowing that God has a plan and all things are working together for good according to God's purpose. In every circumstance we have a church family with which to share our lives.

When we follow Paul's advice in Hebrews 10:25 not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together but rather exhort one another as we see the day approaching, we are right in the center of God's will. Our heavenly Father never intended for us to have to endure the challenges of life alone but we can experience His love poured out for us as we allow ourselves to be loved by our brothers and sisters in Christ.
