OPAL
AGENCY

Hello!

We are Melina Nordstrand and Anja Eriksson and we are Opal Agency.

Opal Agency is part of Bokförlaget Opal, a well established, family owned, independent publishing house in Sweden. Along with Opal's books we also represent books from YA imprint Vox by Opal, and a few from Berghs förlag.

On our list, we have books for children and youth with a clear quality profile, both fiction and non-fiction, illustrated and text-only.

In 2023, Opal celebrates its 50th anniversary, so although there are a lot of news on our list, we also have a large backlist. So if you don't find what you're looking for, please contact us! We might be able to help!

Pite and Palt Takes the Bus

(Pite och Palt tar bussen)

Pite and Palt loves to play and to have fun. One day, they find a cargo bike and start giving each other rides. They pretend that the bike is a bus and play all day, until Football Beaver comes and wants the bike for himself. But the rabbits are not bothered by his bullying ways, instead their naive nature just makes it all into jokes, and in the end, even Football Beaver starts to think that the game is almost fun.

The first book about Pite and Palt came out in 2002, quickly followed by others. This is the first title in a few years, but the small bunnies are just as charming, naive, and, above all, funny as before.

Masoud Gharebhaghi Fooling a Lion (Att lura ett lejon)

Negishon and Leboo are sent to fetch fire wood. On the way, they see a lion's tail flopping in the high grass. They sneak past it, but on the way back, they walk different ways. Negishon don't want to risk passing the lion again and chooses the longer way back. Leboo, though, is convinced he will manage to sneak by the lion one more time and takes the short way. But the lion shows up, hungry for human brains. Are the boys smart enough to fool the lion, or rather ... foolish enough?

Based on an African folk tale, this charming book is both clever and funny. It's the third book by the iranian illustrator Masoud Gharebhaghi published by Opal.

No More Cookies

(Kakorna är slut)

Pelle's and Lollo's house is so messy they trip over things. They realize they have to clean, but really want something sweet to eat first. They decide to bake some cookies but things don't really go as planned. So they go out to see what their neighbors have. It becomes a braazy and messy hunt, where they often choose the easiest way before the moral right one. Is it really the right way to get what you want?

With lots of humor, Ulrika Kestere tells a story about greed, lazyness, and bad luck. And about realizing that the easy way might not be the right one.

The Girl and the Bird

(Flickans fågel)

A dreamingly beautiful story about change. About seeing and understanding the things that happen around you.

One day, the girl sees a bird on her windowsill, high up in a tall building. After that, the girl starts to notice changes, both in herself, and in the city around her. Dream and reality blend together, and neither the girl, nor the reader, know what is real or not.

A remarkable picturebook that is easy to interpret in many different ways, but sends the message that it's possible to dream about a better world.

Sex- A Historic Journey

(Sex – En historisk resa)

Come on a journey through the history of sex. Sex is surrounded by norms and taboos, and the way we think about it has always affected the way we look upon nature, culture and ourselves. This book is about how people in the western world have viewed sex, bodies, gender, and power throughout history. The way we look upon these things has changed during the course of history and things we find natural today is the result of thousands of years of human impact.

In this book, we don't only find ancient, flying genitalia, but also tales of the fight for basic human rights and independence. And of course, we get an answer to the burning question: Did my great great grandmother really think about sex?

Break Free
 (Slita sig)

Lella is sixteen years old and live on a horse farm in the middle of nowhere. The few people living in the area are controlled by old-fashioned habits and unwritten rules. At weekends the young people party in The Pit. That's where it all happens, where you find someone to kiss and drink illegal alcohol. If you don't go to The Pit, you don't exist. But deep down, Lella dreams of something bigger, she wants to become a vet and a show jumper. And one day, she gets the chance to her very own horse. It's D-Day, a horse that has been treated badly and therefore is considered dangerous. Lella is convinced that it's the previous owner that is to blame for its behavior. The problem is that she is one of the most influential persons in the neighbourhood, and you don't question the natural order of things without consequences.

A gripping coming-of-age story about a girl deeply effected by the society she lives in. It's also a tale about the strong bond that can exist between horse and human.

What Is a River?

(Vad är en flod?)

What is a river? It's a thread, embroiding our world with beautiful patterns. It's a journey, visiting mountains, cities and oceans. It's a home, providing water and shelters for all living things. It's energy, giving away its force to those who need it. It's a meeting place, a memory, a riddle, a name. It's all those things, and it binds all of us living on this earth together.

A stunning poetic tale that leaves no one untouched.

The series about Alex Dogboy
(Serien om Alex Dogboy)

Alex lives alone on the streets of Honduras capital city Tegucigalpa. He was abandoned by his parents, and can't stand living with his aunt, so he ran away. But life on the streets is hard and dangerous. Luckily, he has his dogs, without them, he don't know how he would've survived.

Alex's story is real. When he was very young he got in touch with the Swedish author Monica, and told her his story. She promised to spread it to the world. Over the years, they have stayed in touch and Monica has now told the story about Alex's life in three books and one short story.

My is eighteen years old, and lives in a world where everyone knows when they will die. In My's case, that's pretty soon. She struggles with the expectation to make the the most of her last year when she meets Theodor, the boy who tells her there might be a way of fooling death ...

A remarkable debut that makes the reader question everything we know about life and death. Selected as best YA title of the year, 2021.
