Whether an Adventist school is big or small, children can achieve on a higher level there.

It doesn't matter how large or small the school is. It doesn't matter how many students there are, or the number of grades per teacher or even how many grades are in one classroom together. Children achieve at the same high level an average of half a grade above predicted in all subjects.

This is according to CognitiveGenesis, a 4-year study conducted at La Sierra University following 30,000 students, grades 3-9 and 11, enrolled in Adventist schools across the United States.

The North American Division (NAD) hosted 6,000 teachers in Chicago, Illinois, for the 2018 teachers' convention from August 6-9. The theme was "Encounter Jesus, Experience Excellence." Teachers came to grow, learn, and share. This event was three days dedicated to spiritual and professional growth.

Those registered were able to choose from 420 presentations spread across six breakout sessions. In addition to the breakouts and general sessions, more than 200 exhibitors were present.
