

WHAT ARE NATIONAL PORTFOLIO DAYS?

National Portfolio Days are made specifically for aspiring visual artists and designers—like you!

If you are interested in studying art, architecture, and design, National Portfolio Days are for you! These events give you an opportunity to meet with representatives from colleges and universities accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, including the Sam Fox School of Design & Visual Arts at Washington University in St. Louis.

National Portfolio Days allow you to see which schools are a good fit for you and to get feedback on your work. Representatives will review your portfolio, talk to you about their programs, and answer any questions you may have. High school students, parents, teachers, guidance counselors, and college transfer students are all encouraged to attend.

If you're not quite ready to share a portfolio, come anyway! You will still be able to meet representatives and get tips on how to build a successful portfolio for college applications.

- What should I include in my portfolio?
- 15 pieces of your best, most recent work.
  - Drawings from direct observation.
  - Original works, rather than digital copies, whenever possible.
  - Primarily finished work, but some sketchbooks or works-in-progress are great.
  - Don't worry about framing or matting.
  - For in-person events, bring only what you can carry comfortably.

No admissions decisions or scholarship awards will be offered at National Portfolio Days, although some schools, including WashU, may accept your portfolio as part of your college application.
