

Dad, I know you. You didn't wear your feelings around on the outside for everyone to see. You didn't feel you had to chatter a lot to be heard. You sometimes liked to keep things to yourself.

But you never fooled me, even once. Even though we hardly ever talked about feelings in so many words, I always knew how much you cared. I knew it in a million ways, by a million and one little things you did to let it show. And somehow I've always known that beneath that tough exterior was the most special, loving, and caring father in the world. So thanks for being just the way you were... You'll never know how much it meant to have a father just like you. And even though we didn't often talk about feelings in so many words,

I love you too... I always will.
