

DAD

*How do you measure the worth of a man?
When his life on earth has been trod.
And he stands at the Golden Gate
Waiting to meet God.*

*Is it the riches he collected on earth
The material things gained through strife?
No, it's the things we cannot see
That make up a successful life.*

*The years of treasured memories
Dad left us, show his worth.
Do good to, and for, everyone you meet
Was his motto here on earth.*

*The talks and laughs around the table
As his stories and memories unfold,
His big smile and loving hand
Will last longer than silver and gold.*

*A friend to all who knew him...
No kinder man on earth
As husband, father, and grandfather
There's no way to measure his worth.*

*We thank him for the life he lead
The example he set each day
Share what you have, be loving and kind...
Always seemed to be his way.*

*But should a man be measured
By the material things he's had
Then I know we've had the greatest gift
And we just called him- Dad.*
