Screening / Working With Children Check requirements (Squash Australia Member Protection Policy-Regulation 5)

Background

Child protection is about keeping children safe from harm/abuse. Child abuse is illegal, and all states and territories have their own systems and laws that cover screening and/or the reporting and investigation of cases of child abuse.

Working with Children Check (WWCC) laws aim to prevent people who pose a risk from working with children as paid employees or volunteers. In New South Wales laws may require some individuals involved in sport and recreation to undertake a check to determine their suitability to work (in a paid or volunteer capacity) with children. To determine if a person needs a WWCC refer to:

<https://www.kidsguardian.nsw.gov.au/child-safe-organisations/working-with-children-check/who-needs-the-check>

In NSW the Commission for Children and Young People Act 1998 (NSW) provides minimum standards for those who work with children. All organisations within NSW that employ people in child-related employment (in a paid or unpaid capacity) must meet the requirements of the Working With Children Check ("WWCC Check") Child related employment is defined as work which primarily involves direct unsupervised contact with children. Full details are at this address:

<https://www.kidsguardian.nsw.gov.au/child-safe-organisations/working-with-children-check/who-needs-the-check>

NSW Squash generally has two categories of people who need to meet the requirements for working with children.

Self employed

Coaches and officials who are self employed or who invoice Squash NSW for their services require the Certificate for Self Employed People. This will demonstrate to their clients that they are not banned by law from working with children.

For parents and carers

The Certificate for Self Employed People means you can verify that a person you've engaged to work with your child is not banned by law from working with children.

Parents and carers should also seek identification, such as a driver's licence, from any self employed person they are engaging to work with children - and make sure that this identification matches with their Certificate.

If they are a self employed person aged 18 years or older whose work meets the definition of child-related employment, they need to apply for a certificate to show they do not have a criminal record that makes them a prohibited person.

It is an offence for prohibited persons to apply for or attempt to obtain, undertake or remain in child-related employment in any capacity, whether paid, volunteering or self employed.

Taking of images of children

Images of children can be used inappropriately or illegally. NSW Squash requires that individuals and associations, wherever possible, obtain permission from a child's parent/guardian before taking an image of a child that is not their own and ensure that the parent knows the way the image will be used. We also require the privacy of others to be respected and disallow the use of camera phones, videos and cameras inside changing areas, showers and toilets.

If NSW Squash uses an image of a child it will avoid naming or identifying the child or it will, wherever possible, avoid using both the first name and surname. We will not display personal information such as residential address, email address or telephone numbers without gaining consent from the parent/guardian. We will not display information about hobbies, likes/dislikes, school, etc as this information can be used as grooming tools by pedophiles or other persons. We will only use appropriate images of a child, relevant to our sport and ensure that the child is suitably clothed in a manner that promotes the sport, displays its successes, etc. Where possible we will seek permission to use images.

Social Networking Websites Policy

NSW Squash acknowledges the emergence of new technology and communication mediums (new media), and wishes to enable such new media to be used to benefit the sport and its participants, and to applaud achievements. This can occur due to the immediate nature of communication to a wide audience using channels such as Facebook, Twitter, and SMS. However, participants within the sport need to be very mindful of a few key matters that could lead to inappropriate use of new media, at times unintended, and at other times without a proper understanding that once comments are made or published, they are in public for a long time, and hard to take back (retract).

NSW Squash recommends:

- do not include personal information of yourself or others in social media channels
- do not use offensive, provocative or hateful language
- use your best judgment – do not publish something that makes you the slightest bit uncomfortable
- never write/publish if you are feeling emotional or upset (or are intoxicated)
- always ask for a person's permission before posting their picture on a social networking forum
- never comment on rumours, do not deny or affirm them or speculate about rumours
- always use social network forums to add value and promote the sport in a positive way.

Cyber Bullying/Safety

Bullying and harassment in all forms is regarded by NSW Squash as unacceptable. Given the emergence of new telephone and internet social networks, the opportunity for unwanted and improper comments and statements has dramatically increased. Messages or statements made in these ways using these means of communication are largely instantaneous, and can easily be abused. Others may also manipulate a person by encouraging a statement to be made on twitter or Facebook, for example, when the writer may be upset or vulnerable. Bullying has the potential to cause great anxiety and distress to the person who has been the target of any comments or statements. In some cases, bullying is regarded as a criminal offence punishable by imprisonment, amongst other things. Frustration at a referee, team-mate, coach, or sporting body should never be communicated on social network channels, but rather by way of reasoned and logical verbal and written statements and where appropriate, complaints, to the relevant controlling club, league or peak sporting body.
