For Today: Love Thoughts

True love is not a strong, fiery, impetuous passion. It is, on the contrary, an element calm and deep. It looks beyond mere externals, and it is attracted by qualities alone. It is wise and discriminating, and its devotion is real and abiding.

Ellen G. White

Art and Life

When my daughter McRae was 5, she taught me something about art and life. She had painted a picture using a spilled bit of ink. It looked like she started with a mistake. I asked her that and she said, "I can make art out of anything."

I love that thought, and I think that's what God does with our lives. When he redeems, he doesn't duct tape. He doesn't improve. He isn't in the business of better. He does new. He does beautiful. He makes art.

I don't know what part of your life might not feel frame-worthy right now, what part is broken or chipped or worn out. But I do know that we serve a God who makes art out of the broken pieces. A God who can make art out of anything.

Generosity

A friend of mine once told me that "generosity is a game changer." He said that when you're generous, it completely changes an entire situation. And he's right. You will work harder for a boss who is generous to you. You will work longer for a boss who is generous to you. You will tell your smartest friends that they'd be smart to work for the company you work for if your boss is generous to you. And that's just work.

Generosity changes everything. This verse in Proverbs 11 is why I try to be generous with things I have: "A generous man will prosper; he who refreshes others will himself be refreshed."

That's such a smarter way to say something I learned recently. It turns out that helping other people change their lives is more awesome than obsessing about your own. Be generous. It's a game changer.
