

FOREVER IN OUR HEARTS

A POEM BY HER NEPHEW: REGINALD E. SMITH II

Victor

*Lazy eyes close of a warmth serene You are set free to roam as the breeze
No more bills and no more pills
The unfairness this world brings you are no longer obligated to it Peace overdue, today you became infinite not limited or encapsulated in one place You are transparent of a morning dew Both toughness and goodness we hold on to you as a lineage bookmark.*

*Kinfolks with crackling voices adrift are fortunate to feel your stare in the mist Beyond skylines of written imaginations
I pondered what she would say as thunder "Boy, I am fine! Stop moping!
Girl, I am good! Keep going!"*

Arriving loud in birth leaving silence on earth Your sweetest exit hits differently to one of us a reminder of death is a concierge among us This reality has thorns once Christ worn The sting is real for not accepting to let go as memories are gifts to visit as needed How can your life be celebrated if we don't fulfill it, not resuming to live ours?

*Distant messages of laughters hopeful to listen on a phone finding comfort to empathize and grieve for healing not alone
To be told from 'lemons' it is impossible You've shown us how to be loved, so it is possible
Any grudge or regrets is now irrelevant Doesn't matter what hinders our differences An angel of ours has made her final victory lap finishing strong for us to cheer and clap The Waving Girl of Savannah sterns on a brink flagging triumph upon her shoulders in "Pink".*
