My Mama

I watched Mama struggle ever since I was old enough to know what was going on. Mama went through some hard times, but never gave up hope. She just took what little she had to work with and somehow figured out a way to cope. I used to watch Mama everyday as her lips would move silently, and it took me a while to figure out she was saying a praying. My mama never had much and carried many burdens. But I know for sure, the good Lord in all his wisdom saw he needed her and called her home, so she can finally rest.

Rest in peace my beautiful mother
Your baby, Nelson.

Dear Foxy

Time has come to say farewell for now. As I sit back and think I can only wonder "how?" How were you just here one day and the next day you were gone?

We were hoping you'd get better, so we could continue talking about fishing.

I am sitting here saying why to myself and what exactly does this mean.

Knowing from here, holidays such as Thanksgiving will never be the same. I'll miss the delicious smells coming from your kitchen, especially your greens.

You were and forever will be our stubborn, loving, woman to drive a few of us crazy, our foxy.

Now that heaven has called you home, there is a feeling of joy knowing you are no longer in pain.

Although you are no longer with us physically, you will forever be remembered.

So until the day we all meet you again, you are our foxy lady and your love will always be in our hearts.

Your grandson,
Greg (Little Bit)
