BUILDING STUDY

We have started a short study about buildings. This will give us a chance to do several STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) activities, learn about careers related to construction and building, build our vocabulary, and learn about buildings around the world.

At home, you can point out features of your house. Talk about what it's made of and how the building functions. We will reference their homes in class, so helping them develop a solid mental image of their homes will help us a lot.

CLASSROOM ITEMS & ANNOUNCEMENTS

- Winter weather is creeping in! We have a variety of hats, gloves, mittens, and jackets on hand for students who forget their own, but personal items for your child would be the best option. Please label each piece in case it gets separated from your child. We do go outside every day unless it's raining, so having appropriate outerwear is important.
- Shoes – For school, athletic-type shoes are the most practical and safe. They are appropriate for outside play and comfortable enough for children inside as well.
- Tomorrow, the upper grades Handbells group is playing for the livestream service at the New Market Church. This will be available on their Youtube channel at 11:30 am.

Students helped create a paper chain depicting the biblical Christmas story to decorate our classroom.
