Nomination for Elder: LEAH BASH

Having been a Christian since I was a child, it was only when life became extremely difficult that the Lord really revealed himself to me – and I clung to him. He held my hand and led me through. Since then I have felt the Lord, leading and coaching me to find my voice and get more involved. Particularly, I have a strong empathy with people who are struggling, those that need encouragement and those needing a listening ear.

It must have been at least six months ago, I started thinking about becoming an Elder – and quite out of my comfort zone. This has not gone away. I have spent a long time mulling this over and praying for God's will to be done ,

I am a person who likes to be busy. I home educate my youngest daughter, teach an autistic man to read, am a host on Airbnb and have a gardening business.

Family is very important to me, whether it is my five children or our Church family. Recently I was given the opportunity to attend a mental health first aid course. I found it very interesting and helpful. It was not a counselling course but encouraged awareness of people who may need help and giving them time to talk and sign posting them to the right service.

I love being outdoors, climbing mountains and enjoying God's creation. Flowers also bring great pleasure and soon I shall be planting loads of hanging baskets ready for the summer.

I feel it's right for me to stand for Elder and see if this is the Lord's will. If I was elected, I would do my best, within my capabilities, to serve the Lord and God's people.

Richard Cracknell (re-election) Elder
