Key Concept for Spiritual Growth

A belief in the second coming of Jesus comprises more than a dogmatic truth to be repeated in our confession of faith. It is the cornerstone of our spiritual life. Jesus' request "your kingdom come" (Matt. 6:10, NKJV) is the pinnacle of His model prayer. The ancient Israelite prayed toward Jerusalem (Dan. 6:10), because prayer was the expression of their hope.

Trusting God

Committing All to God

The world has yet to see what God can do through a man who is fully committed to Him.

D.L. Moody

Worries: Our Children - How will they turn out? Are we good parents?

Prayer should never be viewed as a last resort, but instead in every concern or difficulty be the first thing we do. Prayer opens the door for God to work, and that door is kept open as we continue to pray and thank God that He is taking care of things and people that we have committed to Him.

I urge you to resist the temptation to worry about your children, instead trust God to do in them what you cannot do. Only God can change people! I know that when I say, "Don't worry about your children," it is much easier said than done, but I can promise you that God is faithful, and although we cannot control the choices that others make, our prayers can open the door for God to work in their lives. There is no problem too great for Him.

Never put a time limit on trust!
