

The Train

At birth we boarded the train and met our parents, and we believe they will always travel by our side.

As time goes by, other people will board the train; and they will be significant i.e. our siblings, friends, children, and even the love of your life. However, at some station our parents will step down from the train, leaving us on this journey alone. Others will step down over time and leave seats. This train ride will be full of joy, sorrow, fantasy, expectations, hellos, goodbyes, and farewells. Success consists of having a good relationship with all passengers requiring that we give the best of ourselves.

The mystery to everyone is: We do not know at which station we ourselves will step down. So, we must live in the best way, love, forgive, and offer the best of who we are. It is important to do this because when the time comes for us to step down and leave our set empty, we should leave behind beautiful memories for those who will continue to travel on the train of life.

I wish you all a joyful journey.

Lyn K. Charboneau, beloved wife, mother, grandmother, and friend, passed away April 11, 2024. She was born Lynette Issendorf on May 1, 1953, in Wheaton, MN to Lowell and Mavis Issendorf.

Lyn had a passion for life that was truly infectious. Her warm and loving personality brightened the lives of all who knew her. She was known for being a wonderful grandma and cherished her family above all else.

A woman of many interests, Lyn found joy in the simple things - from camping and fishing to pontoon rides and gardening. She had a knack for capturing special moments through photography and loved nothing more than swimming and tubing with her grandkids.

Lyn will be deeply missed by her surviving family members including her husband Chris, daughter Marcie Kluver, son Chad Bartholomew, grandkids Emily and Jordon Kluver, Madison and John Bartholomew and many friends who were touched by her kindness and generosity.

Lyn is preceded in death by her parents, brother Larry Issendorf and brother-in-law Craig Charboneau

Lyn's legacy of love and laughter will live on in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to have known her. May she rest in peace.
