The doors of The Henry Highland Garnet Auditorium at 175 West 134th Street between 7th and Lenox Avenue, opened wide on November 20th at 7:30 sharp for the Future Stars Productions Harlem Talent Showcase. This was the fourth venture for the new and upcoming company with a fifth show in the making for the Christmas Holidays, a Gala event commemorating the Future Stars one year anniversary producing showcases which is sure to be one of the hottest tickets in Harlem. This unique blend of gifted talent, of singers, dancers, hip hop, pop, rap, Broadway and reggae performers will open this show with a bang. Future Stars is looking at this project with an objective eye with plans for the development of other showcases this season. We seek to expose and place our performers on a professional level—definitely a move in the right direction for success in their future careers.

Future Stars is under the direction of Russell Gooddine, singer, actor with 20 years of performing and business background. He is now producing for the company. We are working on other projects already laid out on the drafting board. Many of these projects will take place inside and outside of the city.

Holiday Deadline: Friday, December 30th at 12:00 noon.
The office will be closed Monday, January 1st.
