

IN LOVING MEMORY

Today I was so sad I went outside to cry.
Then I saw above me a pretty butterfly
I watched it fly around me and up into the sky.
I forgot I was so sad, so come again sweet butterfly.

When I woke up this morning as happy as could be
I look out my window at every bush and tree.
I saw that they were covered with snow right to the ground.
And I thought it was the prettiest sight in little Richmond town.
